MedX[®] Health Corp. To Commence Trading On TSX Venture

Mississauga, Ontario - February 11, 2008 – MedX Health Corp. (TSXV: MDX) ("MedX" or the "Company"), a leading North American developer and manufacturer of phototherapy medical devices, is pleased to announce that, effective with the market opening on Tuesday, February 12, 2008, the common shares of the Company will commence trading on the TSX Venture Exchange ("TSXV") under the stock symbol MDX. MedX's listing is considered a new listing with a Tier 2 classification as a medical device manufacturing company.

The net proceeds of the Company's recent public offering will be used for expansion of distribution network, marketing program, product development for new dental, rehabilitation and wound care products, research and development for wound care study and for working capital purposes. In particular, MedX plans to accelerate the development of a new product aimed at the rapidly-growing wound care market: its "PhotoBandage", a bandage technology that allows a wound to be bathed in light, designed to enhance the healing process. The Company intends to license this new technology to one or more major wound care companies for further development, marketing and sales.

"We are all very excited to be in a position to be able to proceed with our business plan," said Phil Passy, MedX's President and Chief Executive Officer. "Being listed on the TSXV gives us liquidity which will help us access the capital market. We believe that the healing power of light is only now starting to be broadly appreciated. It is our mission to be a leading provider of phototherapy products that bring the phototherapy products to the large population of people."
